What would any game be without a wild card, and in the Looney Tunes cast of characters that has to be the Tasmanian Devil. Directed by Robert McKimson, "Taz" first starred with Bugs Bunny in "Devil May Hare" in 1954. This whirling dervish of perpetual motion is unstoppable and enjoys an immense popularity that continues to grow greater each year.

Speaking in a low, rumbling grumble, the landscape-eating Tasmanian Devil is always hungry and nothing slows his breakneck speed to the next meal. Wild and totally unpredictable, Taz reflects an uninhibited boyishness in his impulsive, spontaneous behavior.

Tough, aggressive and rebellious, Taz's high energy "macho" profile has made him a strong character who offers great appeal to males of all ages. Young boys like his wild behavior, teens appreciate his wildness and adult males associate him as a winner in tough situations.
